The Columbian.

The demand upon our columns for advertising space certainly shows that business men recognize the value of "The Columbian" as an advertising medium.

VOL 29 BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1894. NO 29

CANDIDATES.

HOW THEY LOOK AND WHO THEY ARE.

WILLIAM T. CREASY.

William Trenton Creasy was born in Catawissa township in 1856, and is a son of Nathan Creasy. His ancestors were of the earlier settlers of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, as well as of Columbia county. Some of them had taken an active part in the war of the Revolution. They were Democrats from the organization of the party.

Mr. Creasy is a graduate of the Bloomsburg State Normal School and has also a German education. He taught school at the age of 16 years, and followed teaching in the winter and working on the farm during the summer for a number of years and since that time has devoted his entire attention to farming and fruit growing.

He was one of the originators of the white Plymouth Rock chickens. Is now serving his fourth term as school director; was mercantile appraiser in 1893; appointed chairman of the committee on Legislation of our county Grange, and is also its presiding officer.

Two years ago he was appointed as a committee to ascertain the relation of the assessed values of farm lands in Columbia county to their selling value, making the best tabulated report up to that date on this subject. He was the author of several articles on the equalization of taxation.

Mr. Creasy has always been an active Democrat and on several occasions a delegate to our county convention.

He now asks the support of the Democracy for nomination to the legislature.

EDWARD MARVIN TEWKSBURY.

Edward Marvin Tewksbury, candidate for Representative, was born September 10, 1837, in Brooklyn, Susquehanna county, Pa., on a farm. His father, Reuben Tewksbury, was a native of Vermont, and his mother, Martha Cory, was from Rhode Island.

Until the age of fifteen years Mr. Tewksbury attended the public schools of the township where he was born. He then took a three years' course of instruction at Harford University. He began teaching public school near Millersburg in Dauphin county, Pa., when eighteen years of age, teaching more or less each year for nearly twenty years, part of the time in connection with farming. In 1860 he met with an accident, resulting in permanent physical disability, which incapacitated him for the more active duties of life. He is emphatically a farmer, living on the farm, yet interested in other pursuits of a mercantile character. He has filled a number of local offices in his county and was a delegate to the Democratic convention in Allentown in 1883. He was elected to the house in 1890 and 1892, each time by a commanding majority. As a candidate the last named year he had no opposition. At the request of the State Chairman he has frequently stumped the State. In the Legislature he served on several of the most important committees. Among others he introduced bills to require seats to be furnished females employed in factories, to prohibit the issuing of free passes and discrimination in freights, to fix railroad fare at two cents a mile, for the introduction of free text books in the schools, to prohibit the employment of children under twelve years of age who have not attended school twelve weeks in a year, for the distribution of the State appropriation according to the number of months taught in the several districts, for a general borough law, for a commission to locate the forts of Pennsylvania prior to 1783, and for the exemption of forest lands on farms not exceeding 50 per cent. of the average in cultivation from taxation, and the joint resolution under which the flag has been kept floating over the dome of the Capitol since the session of 1893. Mr. Tewksbury has ever been actively working for the triumph of his party, believing that the best interests of the State and Nation demanded its success, and has always been a Democrat. He has been greatly interested in the common school cause. Mr. Tewksbury is a Methodist and a Granger, yet his views are of the most liberal character on the rights of others, and no vote of his has ever been given for any particular class.

Special Council Proceedings.

Upon call of the President the Town Council met in special session on Monday evening.

The matter of sewerage for southwest Bloomsburg was up for consideration and discussion. On motion of Sterling and Wilson it was ordered that the sewer be repaired as it is; that the town engineer examine and report to President what may be required to perfect the work; and that the President be authorized to order it at once. He was also authorized to order enough 12-inch pipe to drain the surface water of Scott Town into Fishingcreek.

Mr. S. P. Townsend called the Council's attention to the advantages of his street roller.

There being no further business brought before Council, on motion it adjourned.

ROWDYISM.

In the mazes of the giddy dance and the entanglements of drunkenness, which is apt to accompany where the public dance is a pronounced success, ten persons were recently wounded and several knocked down during a picnic at Hazleton. Warmed up with the intoxicants that cause about nine-tenths of all the crimes committed, Mike Roman, an Italian, got knocked down while engaged in a row with some one on the dancing floor. His fall raised the ire of his fellow countryman Giovanni Perna, who drew his revolver and fired into the crowd at random. This had a tendency to check the revelry until they could count the wounded and about kill the Italian who was on the war-path.

It is only the record of one more drunken row in which ten were wounded and the perpetrator about killed for doing what the devil dictated.

The Bridge Contract.

Mr. Theodore F. Conner figures on a loss to the County Commissioners of $175 by their having ignored Wm. Ferguson's peculiar or irregular bid for filling and riprapping at the river bridge. While Mr. Melick filed a uniform bid of 54 cents per cubic yard for all the filling and riprapping to be done, Mr. Ferguson bid both higher and lower than this. At four points his bid is higher and at three points it is lower than that of the successful bidder.

According to our notion exact measurement of the work to be done can alone determine which is the lower bid and who, in consequence, is of right entitled to the contract.

Can't some faithful and sympathetic Signal Service outlook in the employ of the Government somehow discover a cold wave to report to our weather forecasters? For thesake of their reputation please note also the velocity of the thing, so that they don't forecast it too late or too early. The Signal Service outlook who can now either generate or discover a cold wave, or even a damp one, will be deserving of consideration at the hands of our weather forecasters besides a good many other folks who can't afford to go to the springs or summer resorts.

SAD CASE OF DROWNING.

On Wednesday, the 18th instant, Miss Clara Bogert, of Catawissa, was drowned in Fishingcreek near Arbutus Park. She was accompanied by Miss Lucy Jacobs, who also came very near drowning. George Reed, a colored boy, saved her life, but could not rescue Miss Bogert.

We are informed that the young ladies had accompanied Wm. Taylor's family who were camping out at Arbutus Park. Leaving the camp a short distance the girls wandered along the stream for recreation, and, being dressed for a cooling off in the water, they ventured to wade in. The current, being swifter than they apprehended, soon carried them into the danger from which Miss Jacobs was narrowly rescued and which thus sadly terminated the life of her young companion. The shocked and bereaved parents of Miss Bogert could only take her lifeless body home for burial after being apprised of the sad mishap. Miss Bogert having been under water some twenty minutes before her body was rescued by the aid of some B. & S. trainmen and others who were apprised of the sad event, all efforts to resuscitate her were in vain.

M. W. JACKSON DEAD.

Mordecai W. Jackson, a prominent citizen of Berwick, died on Wednesday morning. He was born in Berwick, January 28, 1815, and began life as a poor boy, but worked his way up to fortune and prominence. He was a member of the firm of Jackson & Woodin, President of the First National Bank of Berwick, and a trustee of the Danville Asylum. He was an associate judge of this county for a few months by appointment of Governor Beaver, on the death of C. B. McHenry in 1889. He leaves a wife and three children, namely Mrs. B. F. Crispin, Frank R. by his first wife, and Mary by his second wife.

If physiognomy counts for anything then there is something wild enough depicted in the facial expression of Governor Altgeld to account for his letter to the President claiming that he needed no help to maintain the peace of Chicago. If he needed no help the rational inquiry is, why did he permit the peace to be disturbed and property to be burned? If there is a hell on earth to day we have thought for some time that all the evil influences contributing towards the necessity for it, either here or hereafter, are concentrated right there in Chicago. The wonder is that the Almighty don't open the earth and let it down to the seething cauldron and the molten lava of the earth's interior.

Home Again.

Mr. Joseph Ratti, the principal factor of the Bloomsburg Silk Mill, having recently returned to America from a visit to the old country, was happily greeted by his employees and made the recipient of a handsome boquet and also a serenade by the band on Monday evening. A number of his friends called on him, and congratulated him on his safe return. He visited Italy and France during his absence.

Mrs. Thomas McBride, the estimable wife of the Steward of the Bloom Poor District, died last Saturday morning, aged sixty-eight years, and was buried at Light Street on Monday. Her husband, one son, Urbanus, and one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Hirleman, survive, and have the warm sympathy of many friends in their affliction.

President Debs, Vice-President Howard, Secretary Keliher, and Chairman Rogers are all in jail, it seems. They are incarcerated at the instance of the United States for violation of an injunction issued July 2d, restraining them from conspiring to hinder commerce and the movement of U. S. mail trains. Bail was refused.

Will be sent to the dead letter office July 24, 1894.

J. H. MERCER, P. M.

A Sudden Death.

"Ticy" Whitenight, the well-known lime burner of this neighborhood, died while lying on the sofa face downward, at his home, on Tuesday evening, the 17th instant. The supposition is that he suffocated.

BRIEF MENTION

About People You Know.

Miss Anna Conner, accompanied by several lady friends, took the train on Monday morning for Lehighton.

Mrs. Crawford has rented rooms on the second floor of Wells' building, and will open a millinery store.

Among Bloomsburg residents who are fixing up about their homes, we mention Mr. Eli Jones, on East street.

Mr. John Phillips, of the Hughesville "Mail," was a caller at the COLUMBIAN office on business on Thursday.

Mrs. Caldwell and son, Edward E., started for Ireland last Friday to visit relatives. They will be absent two months.

Mrs. Rebecca Carman is visiting at Benton this week, from whence she moved some few months ago to her home on Normal Hill.

Mr. James Trump, of Forks, Pa., was in town on legal business on Friday last. In common with the rest, we notice that James is growing older.

Rev. A. J. McCann held services at the house of Mr. Flynn in Jamison City on Wednesday morning. He goes there regularly once a month.

Mr. C. F. Knapp, the old and reliable insurance agent of Bloomsburg, left here on Monday to visit Mechanicsburg on business connected with his agency.

Mr. Fred Ikeler certainly touched upon a worthy theme—that of singing with a true spirit of devotion—in his address before the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday.

Mr. J. C. Henderson, of Lewistown, was one of the principal participants in the recent bicycle race to Berwick. He took three of the prizes back home with him.

We acknowledge receipt and appreciate, but we can't read, the Japanese paper kindly sent us from Tokyo, Japan, along with the kind compliments of Frank G. Carpenter.

C. G. Barkley, Esq., has three law students registered in his office. They are Howard Patterson and William Hutton, of Bloomsburg, and Edward Flynn, of Centralia.

Paul Bliss, son of the well known evangelist, who has been spending a few weeks in Bloomsburg, assisted in the singing at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. He has an excellent voice.

About fifty persons took dinner at Proctor Inn last week at the Episcopal excursion, and ten couples remained over night and had a dance at the hotel in the evening. All were pleased with the hospitality of landlord Howell.

Mr. Tom Johnston, of Lewistown, accompanied by George Keiter and Benjamin Vannatta, rode to Lewistown on their wheels on Monday. They left here at 4:30 a. m. and arrived at Lewistown at 2 p. m., stopping 45 minutes for breakfast and one hour for dinner.

R. Buckingham, Esq., will start to-day on a summer trip. In company with his brother-in-law, Dr. Biddle and family, of Ashland, he will sail from Philadelphia to Boston by steamer, and will visit New York, Coney Island, and other places. He will be absent about ten days.

S. C. Creasy, who with his family is spending this month at Ocean Grove, is making good use of his time. He goes out fishing daily, and has been having very good success. On Tuesday there arrived here by express a box of large weak fish, packed in ice, sent up by him, which we presume were of his own catch. One of them was served on our dinner table, and Mr. Creasy has our thanks for catching it, and Mr. J. G. Wells for delivering it to us.

The breaking of a plate glass in one of the windows of Pursel & Harman's store by ball throwers on Main street, ought to be a lesson to all who indulge in that pastime. It is no place to play ball, and ought to be stopped by ordinance.

The needed improvements are nearing completion at the Silk Mill. This enterprise is unique and profitable, when conducted as this is upon correct business principles and in an efficient manner.

The question of the admission of Utah as a State, having gone through the requisite forms of legislative action was sent to the President for his signature on the 12th instant.

The clothing buyers of this vicinity are gathering at Lowenberg's,

The Big Summer Clothing Sale

is the great attraction.

Only Lowenberg's could have the outlet for so much summer clothing. The great confidence reposed in them by the people gained only by years of honest faith between buyer and seller is fully merited and and public confidence is being amply repaid by

PRICES MARVELOUSLY LOW

Never before in the clothing history of this section has summer clothing been sold so cheap. Men's beautiful fine serge suits sold by other stores at $13.50.

Our Price, $8.50.

Men's elegant all wool suits (wool that's all wool and not all cotton) considered cheap at other stores at $10.00.

Our Price, $6.00.

You will open your eyes when you see our boy's long pants suits (ages 10 to 20) for $2.00 and $3.00. Easily worth double the money.

Just think of it, children's whole linen suits 25c.

Men's and boy's light weight coats 20c.

These are prices that makes the goods move, at the great leaders of the clothing business in Bloomsburg,

CAPRICE RATHER THAN RULE.

The Way Names of Persons and Places Are Pronounced.

Names of places and persons are pronounced according to caprice rather than according to rule.

The people of Quincy, Mass., as well as the people of Massachusetts generally, say Quinzy, while western people say Quinsy.

In the same way the fellow-citizens of Emerson and Thoreau would have been amused if any one had pronounced the name of their town as every one pronounces the common word which is spelt in the same way. "We live in peace and concord with our neighbors," they might have said "but we and our neighbors live in Concud." In other words, the inhabitants of Concord, Mass., give the second o an obscure sound and omit the r altogether.

Thousands of Companion readers have been taught at school to say Arkansas. Other thousands, no doubt, have been taught to say Arkansaw.

Which pronunciation is correct? This question was proposed to Representative Breckinridge some time ago, and was answered in favor of Arkansaw. The name was formerly spelled Arkanso and Arkanssa, he says. The final s was added by the French, but was silent.

In the State itself, Mr. Breckinridge adds, it is only visitors and new comers who say Arkansas. At the same time it seems to be true that usage has not always been uniform.

When Millard Fillmore was vice-president of the United States, Mr. Breckinridge says, the two Arkansas senators disagreed as to the pronunciation of the name. Each insisted that he was correct and Mr. Fillmore, as president of the Senate, compromised the matter by recognizing one as "the gentleman from Arkansas," and the other as "the gentleman from Arkansaw."—Youth's Companion.

Charged High for His Work.

Every safe manufacturer has attached to his force expert locksmiths whose duties consist in opening safes which have gotten out of order.

Many of the accidents to safes occur from the gross carelessness of their owners, and at times the honest safe crackers enjoy a quiet laugh at the expense of a group of bank officers or the proprietor of some important establishment.

Not long since a large manufacturer telegraphed to a New York safe maker, requesting that a man be sent at once to his place of business, a town about fifty miles from the city.

Upon reaching his destination the expert, with his kit of tools, repaired to the establishment, and was informed that the vault, an old-fashioned affair, which locked with a key and which contained the safe and books of the concern, could not be opened.

The man examined the lock and then the key, opened his kit, took out a bit of wire and began to dig a mass of dirt, dust and lint out of the key. Then he inserted it in the lock and, while the proprietor with a sickly smile looked on, turned the implement and opened the door.

"What's your charge?" asked the manufacturer.

"Fifty dollars," replied the expert.

"Does anyone know you are in town?"

"No."

"Well, then, here's sixty dollars," remarked the manufacturer. "I'll give you ten dollars extra if you'll take the first train back to New York without telling anyone the price I've paid to have a man dig dirt out of a key for me."—New York Herald.

Ladies First.

"What can you tell me about Moses?" asked the inspector. "What sort of a man was he?"

"Please, sir, he was a gentleman," piped forth a palefaced, bright-eyed lad of eleven or thereabout.

The little boy promptly replied: "Please, sir, when the daughters of Jethro went to the well to draw water the shepherds came and drove them away, and Moses helped the daughters of Jethro, and said to the shepherds, 'Ladies first, please, gentlemen.'"—Good News.

Chinese Description of the Piano.

"The Europeans keep a large four-legged beast, which they can make to sing at will.

"A man, or more frequently a woman, or even a feeble girl, sits down in front of the animal and steps on its tail, while at the same time striking its white teeth with his or her fingers, when the creature begins to sing.

"The singing, though much louder than a bird's, is pleasant to listen to.

"The beast does not bite, nor does it move, though it is not tied up."—Das Neue Blatt.

Pathetic.

A lady who had spent a great deal of time in trying to teach her servant girl to make a good drawn butter gravy, and who found no little scolding necessary to accomplish it, called Bridget into the dinner table one day, and said severely:

"Is that so, ma'am?" asked Bridget sorrowfully.

"It is, Bridget. Now, how do you account for it?"

"I do' know, ma'am; but I do be thinking, ma'am, that I dhropped a tear intil it!"—Youth's Companion.

He Wanted to Know.

"Wonderful country!" exclaimed the Kansas man. "Why, when I moved out here it was forty miles to Brown's, my nearest neighbor."

"And how far is it to Brown's now?" put in the eastern man.

Taking a Mean Advantage.

"What do you do when your wife gets at you for coming home late?" asked the first deaf and dumb man.

"Turn out the gas," responded the other.—Life.

PEOPLE OF NOTE.

Mrs. U. S. Grant has an annual income of $24,000.

The mysterious veiled lady with the Coxian army is said to be no other than Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of the Chicago Anarchist.

Governor Lewelling has the reputation of being, among other varieties, a baseball crank. And he has a habit of getting off his base.

Mr. Aubrey Beardsley, the artist whose fantastic drawings are just now a "fad" of English bookmakers, is not much over twenty years old.

Walter Besant is a chronic, dyed-in-the-wool optimist, and he is said to be more proud of the fact than he is over all his literary successes.

President Harris, of the Maine State college, is one of the youngest men in charge of a great educational institution in the country, being only thirty years of age.

Mrs. Kate Douglass Wiggin, the authoress, is a Philadelphian by birth, who was educated in New England, transplanted to California, and then came back to New York.

Francis Murphy, the temperance reformer, appears to be as popular and effective as ever. He is now conducting a most successful series of temperance meetings in Boston.

The trustees of the estate of Lady Henry Somerset, the leader of the Women's Christian Temperance movement in England, are petitioning the courts for an injunction to restrain her from closing all the saloons on her estate.

The late Gen. Early, whose picturesque profanity caused him to be known during the war as "Lee's Bad Old Man," was in his later years, according to the testimony of a Richmond friend, "a daily reader and thorough student of the Bible."

Mrs. Susan Stuart Frackleton, of Milwaukee, who has attained distinction as a potter, and is president of the National League of Mineral Painters, is author of a work that is used as a text book in the South Kensington Art Museum Library.

Abraham Lincoln's autograph, it is said, has been stolen by autograph hunters from every paper on file in the county courts of Illinois. The abstractions have been made, it is said, by connivance of the custodians of the papers in very many instances.

Only one man in the history of the Senate, Thomas H. Benton, of Missouri, served longer than Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, who has been a member of that body nearly thirty years. Benton was elected October 2, 1820, and retired March 4, 1851.

Gail Hamilton regrets to see women engaged in an effort to secure the ballot for themselves. She looks upon it as a "movement backward toward men and mastodons, the miocene hipparion and eocene anchitherium," whatever that may signify.

Mr. Munro Ferguson, according to a Scotch newspaper, said that after prodding Mr. Gladstone on the subject, the ex-premier said: "My dear sir, I might as well undertake to replace the first man in the garden of Eden as to carry home rule for Scotland."

Mrs. Waite, the wife of the governor of Colorado, is forty-eight years of age, while her husband is sixty-nine. She was a widow and he a widower when they maried. She is interested in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and thinks there is no one like her husband.

The paper on which letters to Queen Victoria are written must not be folded. No communication which bears evidence of having been creased will ever find its way into her majesty's hands. The proper method is to write on thick, glossy white paper and to dispatch the missive in an envelope which fits it.

The latest royal convert to cycling is the king of the Belgians, who now takes an hour or two's exercise regularly every morning on a tricycle in one of the avenues adjoining Lakeon palace. For some time past Leopold II. has suffered from lameness in one leg, for which massage and various other remedies have been tried in vain.

Unity church, Cleveland, Ohio, is probably the oldest church in the world that has as pastors two women. They are the Rev. Marion Murdoch and the Rev. Florence Buck. They are highly-educated women, having finished their education at Oxford University, England. They are co-pastors of the church, and have been remarkably successful.

Bismarck has lost none of his old-time gallantry. It was arranged by the deputation of ladies who personally visited him to present the 40 bottles of finest Rhenish wines contributed from Baden, Hesse and the Palatinate that each of them should kiss his hand upon being presented, but the old soldier kissed them instead, and not upon their hands, either.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, has gone against the custom of generations, which prescribed that, as French is the language of diplomacy, the cards of all foreign representatives, no matter of what nation, should be engraved in the French language. His cards are inscribed simply, "Sir Julian Pauncefote, representative of her Britannic majesty."

E. A. Abbey, the well-known artist illustrator, makes his original black and white picture many times larger than the illustration of which it is the basis, but, unlike most illustrators, he is able to sell his originals at high prices in Great Britain. He is one of the few illustrators who always have their originals returned by the publishers after the engraved copies have been prepared. The popularity of his originals has led him to paint less with reference to reproduction than to first effect.

WISE WORDS FOR WOMEN.

It is just as well that there is no marrying or given in marriage in heaven. There is no record of any divorce court there.

What the average woman most needs is more sleep, less hurry, fewer calls and quieter home life.

"At what time in life do you consider man in his prime?" "When he is neither young enough nor old enough to want to write poetry."—Washington Star.

"What do the girls call that club of yours?" "The Analytical." "H'm. What do you analyze?" "Other people's reputations, mostly."—Washington Star.

"How many ladies have you invited?" "Twenty-five." "But I thought you were going to invite fifty?" "But consider the fashion in sleeves."—New York Press.

Mrs. Winks—"Dame Fortune has been smiling on Neighbor Hicks, I hear." Mrs. Jinks—"Oh, the horrid old wretch, and his poor dear wife not dead a month."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"People don't die very often over here, do they?" inquired the smart New Yorker. "No, only once," replied the Philadelphian. And there was an intense silence.—Philadelphia Record.

Maude—"Why don't Laura marry Dick Hobson? I thought she liked him." Clara—"She does, but she says it shall never be said of her that she was Hobson's choice."—New York World.

Mrs. Brown (nudging Mr. Brown, who snores with his mouth open)—"William, you'd make less noise if you'd keep your mouth shut." Mr. Brown (only half awake)—"So'd you."—Life.

"Mandy, did you read that notice on the counter, 'Your choice for fifteen cents?'" Mandy—"Land sakes! yes; but it looks like an awful price to ask for them clerks."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Marriage," remarked the professor, "was a rite practised by the ancients——" "And bachelorhood," interrupted a maiden of forty, "is a wrong practised by the moderns."—Harper's Bazar.

"Did your late boarder succeed in removing all his effects?" "I should say not," rejoined the landlady. "I don't suppose I can ever get the cigarette smell out of the curtains."—Chicago Tribune.

"Is your daughter improving in her painting?" Mother—"Well, I should say so. Her last picture was so good that only three of the family failed to guess what it was."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

She (in affright)—"Oh, Tom, why do you make such awful faces at me?" He (contritely)—"I can't help it, dear. My eyeglasses are falling off and I don't want to let go of your hands."—Boston Home Journal.

"Billy Bliven asked Miss Parsdigh how old she was," said one girl to another. "Did she get angry?" "No; she was flattered. She thought she must look very young or he'd never have dared."—Washington Star.

At the Chess Match.—Dr. Schweitzer—"Playing chess is like making love—the knight tries to take the queen; you are mated by the bishop; then off to the castle—in the air—and, alas! everything is in pawn!"—Hello.

"Don't sit on this bench with me, George, please!" said Maud. "Why not?" asked George. "Because it is only strong enough for one," said Maud. "Then, I say, Maud, can't we be made one?" suggested George.—Harper's Bazar.

"Do you think that woman is fickle?" said Kiddins. "Certainly not," replied Kaddins. "You can always depend on her. She announces that she will do as she pleases, and keeps her word religiously."—Washington Star.

Banks—"What did her father say when you told him that you wanted to marry his daughter?" Rivers—"Well, he didn't absolutely refuse, but he imposed a very serious condition." Banks—"What was it?" Rivers—"He said he would see me hanged first."—Brooklyn Life.

The Power of Gold.

He loved her.
She loved him.
They loved each other.
But her father objected because the young man was almost a total stranger.
The time had come when the youth must ask the father for his daughter, and he feared to go to him.
He held a long conference with his beloved.
He told her he did not want to ask her father.
"George, dear," she asked in a tremulous whisper, "how much are you worth?"
"A million dollars, darling," he responded proudly.
Her face shone in the twilight.
"Then you don't have to ask him," she said with a simple trust. "Let him know that and he will ask you."
And George gave the old man a tip.—Detroit Free Press.

THE FIRE-WORKS ORDINANCE REPEALED.

What Happened in Other Places on the Fourth, and What Will Probably Happen in Bloomsburg, With Recklessness Unchecked.

The following are a few of the fires reported as resulting from fireworks:

The natal day we celebrate with more or less respectability, and with considerable fire and fire-water, was all that could be desired as to the weather. While the sun was bright enough to sparkle the colors of our national emblem and the gold and silver bronzes upon the various banners of the civic orders, the air was both cool and invigorating in the shade.

Benton, being the most advertised and available place near at hand, was, indeed, the center of greatest attraction from north, south, east and west. A gala day it was indeed to Benton, not only in point of old-time patriotism and the old forms of celebration, but also of the old fashioned reckless abandon to fire and fire-water that was so characteristic of what some folks term the good old times of the past. Perhaps the greatest crowd that has ever visited Benton was there on this occasion. So at least we are informed. If it be true, as we are told that 1,500 tickets were sold at Bloomsburg, there can surely be no fault found about patronage from this quarter. Bloomsburg did not limit her patronage to a single day either, for we noticed a crowd who had remained over night in their exuberant patriotism and wild enthusiasm, returning home on the train on the morning of the 5th. They seemed to be so suffused and permeated with patriotism, &c., that they just couldn't get away or get over it in time for business on the 5th. The crowd to which we refer were so gay and festive as to entertain the passengers with songs, mock battles, &c., throughout the entire journey. Thus the Fourth may be said to have passed after the style of the father's in this latitude,

JUST A FEW COMMON CASUALTIES.

At Pottsville, Pa., a cannon three feet long exploded and seriously injured a boy fifteen years old. The lad, John Galbraith by name, was badly injured about the head and in consequence will lose one of his eyes.

At Ripton, Vt., Perley Smith, sixteen years old, had his head blown off by a bursting cannon. He stood in a crowd several feet away.

At Detroit, Michigan, George Boyer was fatally burned and George Ficke was made totally blind by the premature explosion of a fire-cracker.

At Harrisburg a child named Stewart was knocked down and trod upon by a horse in the passing parade. A fire-cracker set fire to and badly burned the awning of Frank Walters. A premature explosion took place in front of the court house which soon scattered the crowd. Here there was no lack of fires caused by sky-rockets and Roman candles. First was the building of Mr. Tenney on Rose Street. Next came an alarm from box 5, because of a stable on fire in South alley. Then soon followed another call from Mulberry street, No. 42. A Roman candle then ignited the shingles on the roof of A. F. Fry's house, 210 South second street. Mike Gerson's stable, on Cowden, then needed attention from the alert firemen of Harrisburg. Over twenty revolvers were captured by the policemen from zealous young patriots who were bent upon being patriotic and combustive. Five colored men, who were also making merry with beer and revolvers, were arrested for being more imprudent than patriotic. James Davis, a lad of 12 years, shot himself in the leg while arranging a horse-pistol for the 4th., &c.

At Tyrone, Pa., Daniel Milton had a cannon fire-cracker explode in his hand. He wanted to see the doctor about it soon after. Mr. Hartwell, of Mummatown, is also a scarred patriot, inasmuch as his left hand is now badly lacerated by the explosion of his revolver. Also a young lad by name of Fiser, of the same place burned his hand through his true devotion to banging away the glorious 4th. A small cannon, manipulated by John Moret, also deprived John of his eye-sight the balance of his days, while Charles Cowell was both burned and badly cut up with a giant fire-cracker.

At Philadelphia fireworks cause fires also. There, of course, they set it down as inevitable and therefore make some extra preparation for subduing the fires generated through patriotism so-called, as fast as possible. Here upon the sacrificial altar of heathenish tradition went up in smoke the home and business place of John A. Bradley, of Bainbridge street. His wife and another lady nearly lost their lives by jumping from the second story windows. This blaze was started by a patriotic young lad who threw some lighted fire crackers into a store that was well stocked with 4th of July explosives. Soon after the patriotic young lad's fire-crackers ceased to crack the shop keeper's stock on hand began to take it up; and patriotic zeal being contagious, the whole shop soon took up the celebration, and then the owners concluded they would rather live somewhere else until after the 4th. The trouble was not in the determination to go, but how best to do so. Rumor has it that they all got out somehow. Leon Etta, who also dealt in fireworks had his property injured to the amount of about $500 by fire. To the enthusiasm of a fire cracker is also attributed the burning of a cigar store belonging to William Bryan, who lives on Sixth and Pine streets. The same is intimated as to the origin of the fire that frightened Mrs. Johnson of No. 522 Spruce street. At 1109 North Second street, Jacob Greenby also suffered about $100. loss before the promiscuous firing ceased. Patrolmen also report detecting and extinguishing many small fires about the city besides those that have found their way into the papers, any one of which if not put out would soon have gotten beyond control.

At Camden the surgeons were kept busy in hospitals and elsewhere dressing wounds, burns, shots, &c., gotten in commemoration of the glorious 4th. Among the more seriously injured here were John B. Mills, 7 years old, shot through arm; Earl Halsinger, 14 years old, injured by exploding powder; Jas. Cunningham, pistol shot wound; and William Peoples, fingers blown off by a small cannon.

At Hudson, Mass., whole business blocks and thirty-five dwellings were destroyed by fire on the glorious 4th of July, which we still celebrate a la the heathen Chinese who taught us how to do it up brown—or rather red, white, and blue. The first color is represented by the red flame; the second by the white smoke; and the third by the blue feelings of the American patriot who finds himself maimed or homeless on the 5th of July.

At New Haven a fire broke out in the market-house which razed it to the ground and threatened to destroy a whole block of buildings, among them the celebrated Yale College. Hurrah for the 4th of July! is still the cry however.

At Honey Grove, Texas, a fire originating through 4th of-July explosives, destroyed the greater part of the town.

In Philadelphia Christian Selwinger is reported as so brim full of patriotism that he charged his pistol with a ball cartridge and fired. The ball plowed a furrow along the skull of Mrs. Annie Robinson. Miss Jennie Soensen, 19 years old, of South Fifth street, was also shot in the head by a drunken or careless handler of a revolver at a picnic. The bullet did not penetrate the skull. Then Mrs. Hattie B. White, of 918 White street, was accidentally shot in the thigh by Joseph Stuart. Some unknown patriot also shot Lena Shudmock of 234 South street.

At Millville, N. J., one boy tossed a fire-cracker in the powder of a toy gun of another boy. The contents of the gun struck him full in the face, terribly disfiguring him for life and destroying one of his eyes.

Hazleton reports, "the casualties attendant upon the 4th of July celebration were numerous, but so far as reported but one life was lost. Hurley Krebs is a victim of patriotic enthusiasm. He celebrated with a piece of gas pipe as a substitute for a cannon. He will view the next 4th with but one eye instead of two. His gas pipe bursted, and thus he placed an eye upon the sacrificial altar of Freedom which was won some time before he was born. A 10-year old boy, John Mock, was also seriously injured by a dynamite fire-cracker which exploded in his hands. His face was literally torn to pieces and his eyes was punctured by the scattering shell.

At Conestoga, Centre, they also celebrated in so-called patriotic style. Here the festive little fire-cracker grew magnificent by kindling a flame that totally destroyed a large tobacco ware-house belonging to Good & Hess. It contained 4,000 cases of Havana seed tobacco worth $16,000, while the loss on the building is said to be $4,000. Fire-crackers sold as low as five cents a pack in this town.

At Norristown Tony Lagrant had both eyes blown out by an explosion of powder. Otto Krebitsch was fatally burned in the same way. He had a quarter of a pound of powder in his pocket which was ignited by a spark from a fire-cracker. He was terribly burned from head to foot. A similar case is that of Otto Krobitzke, aged 22 years, who had powder in his coat pocket. A spark from a rocket set it off and it burned him almost to a crisp from head to foot. There is no hopes of his recovery.

At Pittston, Pa., David Owens, a married man, had his temporal light put out forever by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge. Besides the loss of both eyes his hands are so frightfully mangled that they will probably have to be amputated.

At Stroudsburg, Frank Daily also got a piece of gas pipe and charged it with powder and then touched it off "to celebrate the 4th." His plan worked all right so far as noise was concerned, but the severe injury that he himself sustained was not in the beautiful and patriotic program he had marked out.

At Lawrence, Mass., sparks from a rocket first set fire to a barn; the flames spread from here to an adjoining four-story feed and grain store; then a three-story carriage factory went next. The loss is estimated at $30,000. Rockets are not very dear in Lawrence, Mass., and the small boy and other zealous patriots have lots of fun there on the 4th of July.

Harry Zeigler, of Turkey Hill, could'nt get away from the celebration he had on the 4th. The pack of fire-crackers that cut loose in his pocket burned him considerably, we are informed. His injuries are not fatal, however.

At Lewistown four alarms of fire were sounded, besides those put out without alarm. They all resulted from 4th-of-July combustibles thrown about as usual. Harry Haller will probably see no more of the red, white and blue. Small cannon and premature explosion; but the 4th was celebrated. Charles Haas was also examining a small cannon and it cut loose before he was ready. Dr. Peters looked after Charlie's case. Then Masters Orth and Henderson held on to crackers which they should have dropped.

At Brooklyn, New York, Louis Weiss was shot while just walking along the street. It was the stray bullet of a patriot that struck him. There were too many of this class shooting to tell who did it. Louis now lies in a critical condition in the hospital; but he knows the 4th was celebrated in Brooklyn. And John J. Gilbert, of the same city, was thus shot while sitting on his door-step. The bullet having hit the watch in his pocket, he may easily live to see another 4th celebrated.

At South Bethlehem, Pa., Charles Woerling had an arm blown off and his side so horribly torn that he may die. The same explosion took off the hand of another man.

At West Chester, Pa., a young son of a blacksmith loaded his father's anvil with a pound of powder. He received the full blast of the explosion in the face and chest. Case critical. Another anvil is brought into requisition at Harrod, Ohio, by two lads who loaded and fired it. It killed Henry Smith outright and fatally wounded Frank Askins.

At Spring City, Pa., a lad named Stinson was curious to see what would become of things around there if he should drop a lighted cracker into a good-sized bottle of powder. Hereafter he will view the scenes of this life with one eye.

At Butler, Pa., an experienced well digger got fooled in handling explosives. He will not dig wells for sometime because of a badly lacerated hand in which he held a giant cracker.

At Hudson, Mass, 22 buildings were burned to the ground, at a loss of about a half million dollars; but the 4th was celebrated all the same at Hudson. It is all charged to the festive fire-cracker.

At New York Mrs. Julia Ross was shot to death by Patrick Coughlin, who claims that he was only celebrating the 4th of July. Her quarters adjoined his, No. 316 East 58th street. Patrick was janitor of the flat, but now he is in jail.

We have selected but one case from columns of injuries, deaths, and burnouts that might have been culled from New York papers.

At Royersford, Pa., David Ziegler's dwelling house helped to celebrate the 4th; but this of course was not the intent or purpose of the celebrators.

At Lawrence, Mass., they also had a $20,000 fire. It was caused by a sky-rocket.

At Wilimington, Del., six alarms were turned in before daybreak, and the place soon became aware of the fact that the 4th of July was being celebrated a la the heathen Chinese.

At York, Pa., the Chinese laundryman, Sing Lee, could'nt sing for awhile for fire-crackers which set fire to his establishment, and he was too busy trying to save his effects. An alarm also announced fire at Smedley's oyster saloon on Walnut street which required prompt attention to save it.

And so we might go on culling and recording the most painful injuries that human flesh have inflicted upon it and the most destructive fires that many towns and cities have ever had, and all to perpetuate what we individually deem but a lingering relic of barbarism and heathendom that is in no wise becoming to the finer sensibilities of the age in which we live.

In conclusion we can but reiterate our observation before the 4th about its usual and terrible consequences:

And thus twill be, sweet Liberty,
Since custom fairly spikes us
To precedent and devilment
Until evolution strikes us.

In 1871 a fire resulted in Bloomsburg from a fire-cracker, and an ordinance was passed prohibiting the firing of any squibs or crackers in the town limits. For twenty-three years it remained on the books, and was fairly well obeyed, except when those in authority declined to enforce it. The present Town Council recently repealed the ordinance and we honestly believe that in this they have made a mistake. There was great recklessness in throwing fire-crackers and other explosives in every part of the town on the 4th, and it was only through good luck that no fires occurred.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co, Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

She Comes. She Comes.

With a hurry and a flurry, with a rip and with a whoop,
Emancipated Woman is about to fly the coop.
The cooking and the washing will bother her no more,
She is going to make the polls look as they never looked before.
Hubby must do the marketing, and he must sit up nights
To nurse the baby's colic while she fixes Human Rights.
She has been the slave of man for years, but now she's going to vote—
She's going to run for office, and she's going to ride the goat
In the Masonic lodges and serve on juries, too,
And run for Alderwoman, and do all things that men do;
She will drink the festive cocktail and stay out after dark,
And ride horseback a-straddle in the streets and in the Park.
In fancy I can see her down in the Congress Hall,
Where men so long have had exclusive privilege to bawl:
"Will the lady from Nebraska allow an interup——"
"No that I won't—so there, now—you horrid thing, shut up!"
"Mistress Speaker, I declare to you it really gives me pain
To listen to the foolishness of that old hen from Maine."
O, in dreams I hear each dear one at the same time speak her piece
'Mid the banging of the gravel in the hand of Speaker Lease.
And here in little old New York I think I see her stand
And Tammany Hall may then be strong up on Fifth avenue,
And the damsels down on Hester street may rally round Depew;
And in the County Court House, when woman gets the vote,
Can't you hear the jurywoman putting questions to Joe Choate?
O, what'll become of lawyers' technicality and fudge
When the jury box is full o' girls and Mrs. O'Grady's Judge?

MRS. IDA CASLER.

Her Advice to Over-Ambitious Women.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

Mrs. Ida Casler, of 126 Olive Street, Syracuse, N.Y., believes that there is no amount of money large enough to equal a good, sound, healthy constitution.

Here is a history of her case:—

She was so ill with falling of the womb and leucorrhœa that she could not stand. She was attended by several doctors without benefit, and was completely discouraged.

One evening she heard what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, and decided to try it, together with Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and it is well she did, for she says:—

"I am now well and strong. I am not troubled with either trouble, and all owing to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"If more women would use the Compound there would be less suffering in the world. Many women bring on their troubles by over-work. Remember good health will outbid riches every time."

TOWN TOPICS,
The Journal of Society,
(32 PAGES.) NEW YORK. (THURSDAY.)

Its "Saunterings" columns are inimitable. Its society news, especially of the doings of the 400 of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and all over the world, is not equalled by any newspaper. Its Financial Department is authority with all bankers and brokers. Its "Literary Show"—notes on current literature—is by the cleverest of reviewers. Its "Afield and Afloat" makes it the most interesting paper for all lovers of sport—yachting, football, rowing, shooting, fishing, etc. Its "On the Turf" excels all other racing notes. Its burlesques, poems and jokes are the cleverest. Its stories are by the best writers—among them Amélie Rives, F. Marion Crawford, Julian Hawthorne, Edgar Fawcett, Gilbert Parker, Mary J. Hawker ("Lanoe Falconer"), Barry Pain, Paul Bourget, Rudyard Kipling, Ambrose Bierce, etc., etc., and are, even if a trifle risqué, yet always clever, bright and pretty without coarseness or anything to offend the most refined and moral woman. In addition to all this there is each week a supplement, portrait, in colors, of some man eminent in his walk of life.

Tales From Town Topics

Quarterly, first day of March, June, September, December; 256 pages; 12mo. Contains in each number, in addition to short stories, poems, burlesques, etc., from the old issues of TOWN TOPICS, a complete, original prize story of 120 to 150 pages.

No one who enjoys the highest class of fiction, and would be au courant with all that pertains to good society, can afford to be without TOWN TOPICS every week. There is so much interesting reading in it and in the "Tales," that a club subscription to both will supply any family with abundant reading of the most entertaining character all the year.

A YEAR
FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS.

If you want work that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5.00 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Nothing difficult to learn or that requires much time. The work is easy, healthy, and honorable, and can be done during daytime or evenings, right in your own locality, wherever you live. The result of a few hours' work often equals a week's wages. We have taught thousands of both sexes and all ages, and many have laid foundations that will surely bring them riches. Some of the smartest men in this country owe their success in life to the start given them while in our employ years ago. You, reader, may do as well: try it. You cannot fail. No capital necessary. We fit you out with something that is new, solid, and sure. A book brimful of advice is free to all. Help yourself by writing for it to-day—not to-morrow. Delays are costly.

A splinter of a stone recently fell off the White House. Disintegration of the material or stone of which the house is built is thought to be the cause. Another overhauling is now likely to follow. There's been enough money spent on the inside and outside of that house to build an everlasting house fit for a foreign potentate whose salary is twice that of our President.

War between China and Japan is now about ripe according to newspaper reports. Japan is the aggressor with 10,000 troops already in Corea, and with large reinforcements available. The exact cause of the present trouble in heatherdom we have yet to learn. But if Christians violate all sense of honor at times in church and State affairs we may reasonably expect the heathen to do likewise.

The Pension Bill giving to the defenders of this Government 150 million dollars passed the Democratic Senate without a quibble. This may be accounted for by the fact that there are about as many Democratic pensioners to-day as there are those who still belong to the Republican party. The Republican party's great mistake was that it did not pension the soldiers during the many years it had the chance. Now the honors are divided.

We now have 356 Congressmen and 88 Senators in each others way more or less. One-third of this number, within easy reach of their constituents by direct vote, would be the wisest kind of wise economy, and it would have a mighty influence in hastening pure legislation, and also in retarding the impure kind. In falling over each other in their anxiety to earn their $5,000 salary and to make a record, they often pull the wrong string to suit their constituents. What this country needs is fewer Congressmen at $5,000 a year and perquisites.

The weak attempt to intimidate if not to kill Vice President Wickes, of the Pullman Company, by sending him a bottle charged with explosives through the hands of a weak-minded individual should have been traced up and punished. If labor wants sympathy, this is not the way to create it in America. However well such anarchic plans may work abroad this country is too young and too fond of law and order to either sanction or approve of this wild manner of redressing real or imaginary wrongs. Let us be thankful, as patriots ought to be, for the continuance and permanence of the righteous influence of the founders of this God-blest Government.

The political attitude of the National Record of Danville is not fully comprehended, it seems. Concerning the misconstruction recently put upon it the editor says in his last issue:

"The old rot of a politician who informed one of our friends that the Record was an Anarchist paper ought to spend a few days in school. We would like to meet the dupe upon the difference between Anarchism and Populism. The Populist believes in settling all difference between capital and labor at the ballot-box by constitutional method. The Anarchists, just reverse—by bloodshed, incendiarism and revolution. Don't you see, you ignoramus? It is the gold ring the Populists are after, which is the cause of all the present distress."

The Sovereign's Power Powerless.

Notwithstanding the great pretension of Grand Master Sovereign, as to a universal strike, not more than 5,000 trades-union members took kindly to his call to quit work. All the way from 500,000 to a million was his big estimate. The plan of course comprehended the calling out of every laboring man in the country if possible. The trouble is there is too much demoralizing politics and too many divergent ideas in the labor movement itself for anything like harmony or a universal response to the call of organized labor leaders. And, besides, it is not just every poor man with a family to support who can afford to quit his work, either to lie idle or to go to plundering or begging for a living. The idea of plunder and arson is foreign to the true American. But yet, on the other hand, it must be admitted that to strike without arbitrary action against the employer and also against those who would take all places vacated, would be worse than useless, it would be self-robbery on the part of the striker.

If differences between nations may be settled by arbitration, and warfare be thus averted, why not thus settle differences between labor and capital?

If capital is too greedy after getting its chartered rights and special privileges to remember that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," and enough of it at least to raise and educate a family respectably and comfortably, then labor should have representatives in Congress and the legislatures to look after the annulment of those chartered and protected rights and privileges of capital, and to see to it that there are some deserved rights and privileges also extended to labor as well as to capital. Until labor has true and faithful representatives standing up for them like men, and who are not afraid of ridicule or contempt in the halls of legislation, she must expect to rely upon the mercy and generosity of capital made rich and haughty frequently through the poor man's labor. For one we are not willing to admit that representatives above the price and bribe offered by capital cannot be found for the halls of Congress and the State Legislatures. If the outcome of the present strife does not develop such characters and representatives we shall be much disappointed. Capital takes care to have its rights and privileges legalized, and so must labor, if it ever hopes to hold its own against the highly protected classes. In a country like this, where the vested power is always in the hands of the majority, and the laboring classes always making up that majority, where is the policy or where the excuse or justification for arson, murder, or bomb-throwing. The God who gave us this best government on earth expects its greatest blessing to all to be wrought out through the peaceful and quiet instrumentality of the ballot and not through the bullet.

THE STRENGTH OF ORGANIZED LABOR.

The liberal wages paid railroad men and their generous contribution toward a sustenance fund to bridge over strikes, &c., gives them more available cash in their treasury than is at hand in any other labor organization in the country. The report of their financial weakness is wrong. The association had been industriously accumulating money for over a year preceding the recent strike. Their receipts for the month of June was over $10,000 which came from the single source of dues paid in. And one day's receipts in the month of July foots up to about $1,000. Hence to suppose that the railroad men are without money is all a mistake. Were they all to obey orders and come out together and stay out for a single month, there is no estimating the great loss to railroads that would result from it.

And now Senator Don Cameron is credited with a Presidential buzz in his political head-gear. But as the barrel will not supplant personal magnetism, both Cameron and Sherman are nowhere compared with Reed in this respect. For Reed is a magnet among men. However, the innocent bee should be permitted to buzz just as long as it can make music that magnifies and, in a harmless way, elevates the love-sick aspirant. Old Simon used to say "thumbs up," but he never ran for President.

Whatever mistakes Debs, the labor strike leader, may have made in his various wild assertions he is not wide of the mark in concluding that "a three months continued strike would bankrupt every railroad running into Chicago." It is indeed quite possible for employees to ruin employers, especially where the employers have more valuable property than they can pretend to guard, as is the case with all railroads. It is just impossible to completely guard it where destruction is determined upon along its entire line.

If it be true, as Senator Hill says, that the agitation for an income tax is but a bid for Populist votes, then, we should like to inquire, what sort of a bid is he making by holding aloof from this popular idea, even to the extent of standing in with his avowed political enemies.

GOOD ROADS.

This theme, which as yet is only lightly entertained in this section as an impracticable cranky notion agitated by Coxey, is after all a broad, deep, and quite worthy one. So much so that papers and magazines of no mean pretensions are giving it earnest consideration and elucidation. The very good roads of the older countries will no doubt eventually supplant our wagon-breaking and horse killing American roads. And what better investment could be made of any superfluous funds in the State or national treasuries? What appropriation of such funds that the mind can conceive of would be more universal or so far reaching in its beneficial effects to man and beast of this country. If it is true, as we have often thought, that the great bulk of money appropriated for so-called public purposes and benefits, is after all gotten through false representation and in the interest of a class or a few, it surely would not be so with money spent upon public thoroughfares. Why not spend State and National money on continental thoroughfares as well and freely as upon water thoroughfares—rivers, harbors, &c? Rivers and harbors have received State and National appropriation as far back as we can remember, while the great bulk of travel and transportation after all is done over land as best it can be and at the expense of the impoverished farmer and gain of railroads. Because much public money is wasted annually through the river and harbor bill by the vain attempt to make navigable certain insignificant water ways or streams which the God of nature never intended should be navigable for anything larger than a raft or bateau, is no logical arguments against good continental roads, which are the common property of all mankind, even including the bicyclers who pay taxes as well as those who don't.

We believe the time is at hand when the old fashioned toll-gates, with their extortionate privileges in the interest of corporate power and corporate cunning, should be abolished; and that the idle and superfluous funds of the States and also the nation should be liberally invested in making and maintaining good roads for the common good of the good subjects that may be found struggling for financial life in the rural districts. We have not exhausted this subject by any means.

For instance, Mrs. Chas. Rogers, of Bay City, Mich., accidentally spilled scalding water over her little boy. She promptly applied DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, giving instant relief. Its a wonderful good salve for burns, bruises, sores, and a sure cure for Piles.—W. S. Rishton, Druggist. tf.

If the Great Eastern was the largest vessel the Minneapolis has proven herself to be the fastest in the world. Hitherto the Columbia bore the honors in point of time-making. The Minneapolis is a triple-screw cruiser that can skim along at the rate of a little more than 26½ miles an hour. That will do for boat-riding. The Government's offer of a bonus besides the contract price for building her has no doubt proved a great incentive to make her get along. The bonus paid is $400,000. And what the entire contract netted is their private business we suppose. Somebody is getting rich through Uncle Sam right along.

Though the Chinese government officials are trying to suppress the terrible truth, reliable report, direct from Canton, says that in this city alone 40,000 deaths have occurred from cholera which is spreading throughout the Chinese empire. We have often wondered whether a little Christianity and cleanliness would not rid heathendom of its terrible plagues.

Lippincott's Magazine for August, 1894.

The complete novel in the August number of Lippincott's is "Sweetheart Manette," by Maurice Thompson. The scene is laid at Bay St. Louis, on the Gulf of Mexico, and the charming heroine has a quartette of lovers, and no little difficulty in deciding between them. This well-known author has done no better work.

Louise Stockton's tale, "A Mess of Pottage," is concluded. Other short stories are "At the Rough-and-Tumble Landing," by Prof. Charles G. D. Roberts; "A Military Manœuvre," by Kate Lee Ashley; The Everlastin' Buzzards' Sit," by Charles McIlvaine; and "An In Memoriam of the Keys," by Johanna Staats.

Thomas Stinson Jarvis contributes an acute and suggestive essay on "Feminine Phases," and Charles Henry Webb discusses "Uncared-for Cats" in a humanely humorous vein.

Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood supplies interesting reminiscences of Washington before the War." Mary Elizabeth Blake writes on "Muscles and Morals," George Grantham Bain on "Newspaper 'Faking'," and Will Clemens on "Chinese Shops" and their peculiar signs.

The poetry of the number is by Margaret Gilman George, Dora Reed Goodale, Fannie Bent Dillingham, and Professor John B. Tabb.

All the talk in the world will not convince you so quickly as one trial of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for Scalds, Burns, Bruises, Skin Affections and Piles.—W. S. Rishton, Druggist. tf.

The "house-to-house visitation" by members of the Columbia County Sunday School Association is said to have already exerted a beneficial effect. If personal christian endeavor fails to attract the indifferent, the general appeal is not apt to exert any great influence with them. The "house-to-house visitation" is no doubt quite apt to be prolific of much good in the matter of encouraging attendance at Sunday school and church. It will at least put the responsibility upon the invited where schools are wilfully neglected.

August 10th is now named as the date when it is hoped to have the tariff bill in shape for the Presidential signature or sanction. It is quite possible that he may give it his signature without his sanction. Presidents, like other folks, sometimes find themselves cornered, or occupying the position familiarly known as standing between the devil and the deep sea and with no good chance to back off.

Now, after all the pulling and tugging at the tariff bill, we are informed from Washington that the majority party are unable to come together on any leading schedule. The Democractic conferees are, for some reason best known to themselves and representatives of our protected industries, utterly unable to reconcile their views far enough to patch the thing up and adjourn. Adjournment will be about the only business before them after some kind of a tariff bill is passed.

TEACHER'S EXAMINATIONS.

Mr. Zimmerman is the crack bicyclist who floats through the air with the greatest of speed. He not only wins at home but abroad. In a recent 5-mile race with Barden, in Paris, his competitor left the track after covering two miles in the vain attempt to keep up. Zimmerman, without the stimulating influence of a lively compititor in the rear, covered his five miles in eleven minutes and fifty-nine and two-fifth seconds. That's getting along at the rate of a mile in less than two and a half minutes. It beats Berwick record also.

The Bicycle Race to Berwick.

Under the auspices of the Berwick Bicycle Club a race was arranged on Saturday last covering a distance of fifteen miles. The course continued from Bloomsburg to Berwick and then five times around the race-track on the fair ground. One of the seventeen who started with the rest at the Exchange crossing at Bloomsburg lost his tyre before he got out of town, and we may safely suppose that all the rest were tired before they reached Berwick. Only the three who were first to get there are mentioned as "in it." They are no doubt hard pushers, and are named as follows:

F. S. Gstadler, Jr., Keystone Wheelmen, Williamsport, first; A. N. Audt, Keystone Wheelmen, Williamsport, second; Burt Henderson, Scranton Bicycle Club, Scranton, third. Time 44 minutes 18 seconds.

The other events resulted as follows;

One Mile Columbia County Championship.—J. G. Harman, of this town, first; J. N. Harry, Berwick, second; R. S. Swayze, Berwick, third. Time, 2 minutes 55¾ seconds.

One Mile, Open, Class A.—John B. Corser, Pottsville, first; J. C. Henderson, Lewistown, second; R. A. Gregory, Green Ridge Wheelmen, Scranton, third. Time 2:54¾.

One quarter Mile, Slow Race.—J. C. Henderson, Lewistown, first. Time, 9 minutes 38 seconds.

One Mile Club Race.—J. N. Harry, first; R. S. Swayze, second; I. G. Pursell, third. Time, 2:59.

Half-mile, Open, Class A.—John B. Corser, Pottsville, first; J. C. Henderson, Lewistown, second; R. A. Gregory, Scranton, third. Time, 1:12½.

Grease or No Grease?

We spoke in our last issue something about innovations in the fullness of time which prove a blessing to humanity. Now, because we think it deserves it, we want to speak a kind word for a simple little contrivance, invented by D. D. Davies, which we believe ought to take well in Bloomsburg because of its cleanliness and beneficial effects in the kitchen. It is simply a ventilated cover for frying-pans and pots. It is well calculated to prevent greasy stoves, to retain the substance of meats wasted, and to give the house-keeper less scrubbing and cleaning and polishing to do in the kitchen. Furthermore, Mr. Davies is a christian who proposes to have his patented article made right here in Bloomsburg, and, as lard is pretty well up, we will say to the tired housekeeper don't let too much of it get away from you on the stove and floor while you are cooking. Twenty-five cents buys a patent cover.

AN ANGEL UNAWARES.

On This Occasion, at Least, the Insurance Agent Was Welcomed.

An insurance agent, albeit a useful and at times attractive person, is not always a welcome visitor, says the Detroit Free Press. To some people, indeed, he is a decided bore. One of this class owns a handsome residence, and even the thought of an agent provokes his ire. One evening recently he was enjoying his otium cum dig, when a man walked in on him very unceremoniously. The visitor was a total stranger to him, and before he had time to throw an inkstand at him or to ask him to sit down he began calmly and in a most business-like tone to talk.

"Have you any insurance on this house?" said he.

Well, Mr. Otium-cum-dig, was afire in a minute.

"What do you mean, sir," he stormed, "by breaking into my house, sir, in this manner—breaking into my house, with your infernal insurance business? It is no concern of yours, sir, whether this house is insured or not. Get out, or I'll throw you out."

The visitor was as calm as a May morning.

"It is no concern of mine, whatever," he replied, "but I thought——"

"You have no right to think about what doesn't concern you, sir," interrupted the house owner. "I want no insurance agents forcing themselves upon me, sir."

"I understand that perfectly, and I am no insurance agent. I was merely passing your house, and I observed that it was on fire in the rear, and it occurred to me that if you had no insurance on it, perhaps you did not wish it to burn down."

That's what the visitor said, but Mr. Otium-cum-dig. didn't hear it all: he had gone to the fire, and the visitor smiled and followed him.

Hibernation of Snails.

It is believed that all shell-bearing land mollusks either hibernate or aestivate according to conditions of climate. Most of the snails close the aperture with a membranous or corlaceous covering, consisting of lime and mucus, which is called an epiphragm. W. G. Binney has thus described the operation: "The animal being withdrawn into the shell, the collar is brought to a level with the aperture and a quantity of mucus is poured out and covers it. A small quantity of air is then emitted from the respiratory foramen, which detaches the mucus from the surface of the collar and projects it in a convex form like a bubble. At the same moment the animal retreats farther into the shell, leaving a vacuum between itself and the membrane, which is consequently pressed back by the external air to a level with the aperture or even farther, so as to form a concave surface, where, after becoming desiccated and hard, it remains fixed. These operations are nearly simultaneous, and occupy but an instant." As the winter advances the snail withdraws deeper and deeper, shutting itself out by other epiphragms, like a retreating army covering its front by breastworks as it retreats, until sometimes it has made no less than half a dozen, one within the other. With the snails such as ours, that inhabit moist wooded districts, this protecting wall is thin and nearly transparent, while in those of arid regions it is thicker and often calcareous. Some of the large helices of south Europe secrete a somewhat shelly epiphragm resembling the coating of a turtle's egg, convex externally, with the edge turned in and roughly cemented to the aperture of the shell. In this condition, if not resuscitated by moisture, the snails will remain alive for an indefinite period. —Popular Science Monthly.

Uses of Cotton-seed Oil.

Cotton oil ranks next to sperm oil and above lard oil for illuminating purposes, and it may be burned in any lamp used for either. Mixed with petroleum, it increases the freedom of burning, but this requires a change in the wick. As a lubricating oil cotton seed is useless, because it is half way between the drying and the non-drying. For the same reason it cannot be used for paints, for wood filling, or for leather dressing. It has some use as a substitute for vaseline and similar products. The oil enters into the production of laundry and fancy soaps for woolen mills. The American sardines, properly known as young shad and herring, are put up with this oil, and the use of it extends so far that nearly all the real sardines of Europe are now treated in the same way. The oil forms an emulsion in medicine and a substitute for cod liver oil. On the market the crude oil is known as either prime, or off quality, or cooking. There are also the white summer, the yellow winter, and the white winter. All these, except the crude, bring an average of about fifty cents a gallon in the wholesale market. After the oil has left the seeds, they become food for stock in the shape of oil cake, while the ashes from the hulls make a fertilizer for root crops.—Popular Science Monthly.

Old Time Extravagance.

So many complaints are made of the extravagance of nineteenth century women, and its deterrent effect upon marriageable young men, that it is interesting to read of a certain Miss Phraser's gown, made in the year 1676, which cost $1,676, and of which it is thus recorded: "It frights Sir Carr Scroope, who is much in love with her, saying his estate will scarce maintain her in clothes." Every story repeats itself in time. There is nothing new under the sun; but not for centuries has there been made a gown so resplendent as that worn by the Medicis queen, whereon were embroidered 3,200 pearls and 2,000 diamonds. And what belle in the last cycle has been arrayed so resplendently as Madame de Montespan, who wore at a great court festival "a gown of gold on gold, broidered in gold, bordered with gold, and over that gold fringe stitched with a gold thread, which makes the most divine stuff that has ever been imagined?"

The type-setting machine is responsible for a good many startling statements. When one reads that "John Blank, while a man of great wealth was nevertheless a hyxmopscil man," one feels that though it may be perfectly true, it ought not to be said, under the circumstances.

The following, if not true, is well founded, says the London Globe. A French priest who was passionately addicted to card-playing is said by a writer in the Paris Temps to have inadvertently remarked, instead of "O Lord, who holdest in Thy hand the hearts of kings," "O Lord, who holdest in Thy hand the king of hearts."

A late scientific authority states that by saturating a bullet with vaseline, its flight may be easily followed with the eye from the time it leaves the muzzle of the rifle until it strikes the target. The course of the flight is marked by a beautiful ring of smoke, caused by the vaseline being ignited on leaving the muzzle of the gun. This smoke ring will remain suspended in the air for some little time after the bullet strikes, if the day is not too windy.

TOOTS FROM THE RAM'S HORN

The same opportunity never knocks at any door twice.

The man who will say a mean thing will sooner or later do one.

The man who goes to school to his mistakes will have a good teacher.

To be contented with what we have is about the same as to own the earth.

As soon as some people get a little money they prove by the way they use it that they shouldn't have it.

IN AN UPPER BERTH.

Conspicuous Advantages of Being Near the Roof of a Pullman.

"Why do I prefer an upper berth to a lower in a sleeping car?" repeated the drummer, as he counted out and swallowed six pellets without explaining whether they were for his liver or lungs.

"Yes, why?" queried the man who was felicitating himself on having secured lower No. 7, says the Detroit Free Press.

"Well, there are various reasons. When I first began to travel, fifteen years ago, the wheel of a car on a train passing us flew off and killed a man in lower No. 6. The chap over him never got a scratch. Later on, a fellow threw a rock at the car, and it entered the window of lower No. 4 and broke the sleeper's thigh. Man over him never even woke up. Again, a car I was on ran over a lot of dynamite. Man in lower No. 7 was blown up with the floor and killed, but the one over him didn't even know that anything had happened. Once more, a man in a lower berth can be easily robbed, while one in an upper is seldom troubled. Last, but not least——"

"What?" was asked as he paused.

"I always undress, same as at a hotel. There's no telling when an accident may come. In case the car goes off, the upper berth is apt to close up, and you are thus secure from the gaze of the vulgar public until the porter can put up a tent alongside the track and get your clothes there and help you to dress. Modesty is my chief reason, but as all you fellows broke your necks to get lower berths, of course I can't expect you to understand or appreciate it."

She Was Lucky.

"My husband is so unsympathetic," said the young wife, as she adjusted the new hat. "He does not understand me at all."

"You are lucky," replied the milliner, who knew a thing or two. "That's half the charm of a woman—her husband's inability to understand what she is going to do next. I find all my best customers have such husbands."

He Liked Some Things Better.

"Some of the backwoods districts in Wisconsin send very peculiar men to the Legislature," said the Hon. T. C. Isbell, of that State, as he chatted with acquaintances in the corridor of the Lindell. "I remember one of them who was particularly a curiosity. He had never seen a town as large as Madison in his life, and the State House was a constant revelation to him. On the opening day of the Legislature a page brought in a bottle of ink and a bottle of mucilage for each desk. The latter was a curiosity to the backwoodsman. 'M-u-c' 'muck,' 'i,' 'l-a-g-e' 'lage,' he spelled out 'mucklage.' 'What's that fur?' calling to his seatmate. 'To eat,' was the sententious reply. Nothing further was noticed of the new legislator until the next morning, when he called the page, and, handing him the empty bottle said 'Git me some more. I like some things better, but it's kinder sweet. It's too sticky, though. Hev to drink a heap of water to git it all swallered, but I reckon I kin git along with it. Don't seem to be nothin' else to eat here, 'thout goin' cl'ar back to the boardin' house, an' not much thar.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

His Views on Pants.

A boy in the Wichita schools has been suspended for reading the following essay on pants:

"Pants are made for men, and not men for pants. Pants are like molasses; they are thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold. The man in the moon changes his pants during the eclipse. Don't you go to the pantry for pants, you might be mistaken.

"Men are often mistaken in pants. Such mistakes make breeches of promise.

"There has been much discussion as to whether pants is singular or plural. Seems to us when men wear pants they are plural, and when they don't wear pants it is singular.

"Men go on a tear in pants, and its all right; but when the pants go on a tear it is all wrong."—Union Printer.

IN CONGRESS.

Congratulations to the President and Cabinet.

Report of Conference Committee on the Tariff Anxiously Awaited.

The Knights of Labor Want Attorney General Olney Impeached.

Senatorial Consideration of Strikes and Strikers.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, July 16, 1894.

President Cleveland and his cabinet are almost swamped with telegrams from every section of the country congratulating them on the courage and promptness with which they have brought order out of chaos and prevented what at one time looked like it might be a revolution, and volunteering aid to any imaginable extent, in both men and money. The President and his advisers believe that the worst is over, but they none the less feel proud of the confidence reposed in them by Congress and the people and will continue their efforts to deserve that confidence.

It is Speaker Richardson now, if you please, Representative Richardson, of Tenn., having been elected Speaker pro tem. of the House during the absence of Speaker Crisp, who has been called to Georgia by the serious illness of his brother.

The Democrats of the tariff conference committee have held daily meetings this week, and the air is full of rumors, each contradictory of the other, as to what they have done. These rumors are nothing more than guesses, as members of the conference will have nothing to say until they report to their respective Houses.

Had the situation not been entirely too grave and important to be laughed at, the silly talk of Messrs. Hayes, McGuire and French, members of the Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor, who are in Washington this week, about beginning impeachment proceedings against Attorney General Olney, because of the arrest of Debs, would have been regarded as a good joke. As it is it merely gave the intelligent public an opportunity to guage the caliber of the men who control a once powerful and influential organization and to wonder how they ever managed to get their authority, and how long the organization can stand the use they are making of it.

Senator Daniel, of Virginia, in addition to being a State's rights Democrat of the staunchest sort, is known among lawyers as an authority upon Constitutional law. His resolution (offered as a substitute to the semi anarchist resolution offered by Senator Peffer, of Kans, and supported by the Populist Senator in one of the most outrageous speeches ever made in the Senate in which the abolition of Congress and the transfer of authority to a committee composed of one member from each State was advocated), endorsing President Cleveland and his administration for the prompt and vigorous measures taken "to repulse and repress by military force the interference of lawless men with the due process of the laws of the U. S, and with commerce among the States," and declaring that "the action of the President and his administration has the full sympathy and support of the law-abiding masses of the people of the United States, and will be supported by all departments of the government and by the power and resources of the entire nation," would have been immediately adopted by a nearly unanimous vote of the Senate as it was the next day—only Peffer voting against it—had not Senator Gallinger, of N. H., for some unexplained reason caused it to go over a day under the rules by objecting to a vote thereon and refusing to withdraw the objection, although he was begged to do so by his Republican colleagues. Speaking of the situation Senator Daniel said? "I am a State's rights Democrat, and would be the last man to stand idly by and see the authority of the State encroached upon: but I fail to see anything here that encroaches upon the authority of the State of Illinois in any way. The President is acting entirely within the lines of the Constitution, and his action is to be commended by all law-abiding citizens, regardless of their political predication or partisan feeling."

This is the way the situation looks to Senator Davis, of Minn., the Republican whose raking-down of Peffer will not soon be forgotten: "I have looked into this matter as a lawyer, and my judgment is that the President has gone about this business as a lawyer. He has considered his ground, become acquainted with his authority and powers, and then gone in to exercise them in a righteous cause and for the good of the general public. He has not exceeded his authority one whit; on the contrary, he has not as yet exhausted it. If the Federal troops are not sufficient for this emergency the State militia is at his command. The President can swear the militia of the various States into the service of the United States, and then send them to Chicago or any other point where their mobilization may become necessary. The Constitution is broad enough in this case, and the President is intrenched upon it."

An Old Story.

When giants lived in ancient times,
Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho!
In good old England, or foreign climes,
Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho!
They carried things with a high old hand,
Nor strong, nor weak, could before them stand,
And they killed whom they pleased throughout the land,
Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho;

But the giants didn't have things their own way when Jack the Giant-killer arrived on the scene. You remember the story. Recollect, too, that every age has its giant killer. We have our giants in the form of all sorts of dread diseases, supposed to be incurable. Our Jack is in the form of Dr. Pierce, who has proven "incurable diseases" to be a fallacy. Can you imagine more potent weapons to assist a woman in killing the giant-disease, than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It's the only guaranteed remedy for all functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In female complaints of every kind, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. It's simply a question of the company you prefer—the Giant or Jack!

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is usually the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure. Call upon your druggist for it.

Quite a Few Snakes in One Hole.

A few days ago Samuel Lowry, who works with me at the furnace, asked me to go with him and he would show me a snake den. Sam is an old hand at the business. He took with him a small hand drill and hammer and a liberal supply of dynamite and drug-store whisky. About five miles back in the mountain from the furnace we found the den. Sam proceeded to drill a small hole in a kind of a flat rock that lay by itself in a small cleared space. When Sam had got everything in shape we retired a short distance till the explosion of dynamite had shaken the snakes up; then we proceeded to arm ourselves with a stout stick apiece and went for the snakes. As we came near the rock, that was now blown to pieces, I got very sick from the smell of the snakes, but Sam did not mind the smell. He just took a drink of whisky and went for the snakes. He killed forty-three that were crawling away from the rock.

After the air had got a little purified about the place we proceeded to explore the den. Carefully rolling the heavy pieces of rock away we found a space of about ten feet square covered a foot deep with dead snakes. We got sticks with hooks on and dragged them out and counted them. There were 209 rattlesnakes and 138 copperheads, in all 347. I never knew before this that two kinds of snakes would stay in the same den.

Any one wanting to prove the truth of this so called snake story, let him come to Dunbar and I will show him the remains of the snakes.

When New York is driven by the female suffragists to cast about for a non-partisan Governor they will miss it if they go by the residence of Senator Hill. If the weak sex needs a strong prop he occurs to us as a very proper prop, since his political identity is now a national conundrum.

A RECORD

of twenty-five years of cures is made by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In all blood disorders, this remedy has numbered its cures by the thousands. Years of uninterrupted success long ago led the proprietors to sell this remedy as no other blood-purifier can be sold. They have so much confidence in the "Discovery" that they guarantee it in all diseases that come from a torpid liver or impure blood. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength-restorer, nothing like the "Discovery" is known to medical science. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous Affections, quickly yield to its purifying and cleansing properties.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

For every case of Catarrh which they cannot cure, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy agree to pay $500 in cash. You're cured by its mild, soothing, cleansing, and healing properties, or you're paid.

THE EMANCIPATION OF MAN.

The emancipation of woman is not the most important business of the remaining years of this century. The emancipation of business from the trammels of restrictive legislation—the right of a man to work and labor without interference by another—the right of every man, partnership or corporation to conduct his business according to his own views, and with such laborers and workmen as he chooses to employ, are much more important problems than the question of the ballot for women.

The same laws in relation to person and property apply to single men and to single women. The same rate of taxation applies to the same values, no matter who is the owner. No act of Assembly or of Congress can fix the rate of wages for any kind of labor—can either give work or take it away. As to some fancied restrictions accompanying marriage, all that need be said about them is that, in so far as they may exist, they are voluntarily assumed by the parties, and therefore complaint is without justification. No one is compelled to marry, and every person is allowed to make his or her living in any trade, profession, occupation or calling suitable to the individual genius or taste. In these matters the present condition of things can well remain, and ought to remain.

In the meantime the first thing for the women to emancipate themselves from is the skirt and all its abominations. If it must, in obedience to custom continue to exist in the parlor and the ball-room, so be it; but for all out-door and work-a day uses and purposes, trousers, buttoning tightly round the ankle, and skirts half-way below the knee, are the coming costume. The bust, neck and head can be dressed to suit the taste, form or figure. With that work, business, exercise or pleasure cannot only be done and performed, but enjoyed. When this dress reform has come, and come to stay, then the women can dispense with the ballot, for they will have all things their own way.

There are a few subjects in relation to the emancipation of men and business to which attention is hereby called.

For instance: Why should not the scientific men of the world agree upon and have adopted and used by them one make of thermometer? Those in use differ so much that it is a great inconvenience to use them interchangeably and, to many people, impossible. The Fahrenheit zero is utter nonsense. It marks no appreciable point. Doubtless for practical purposes zero should be the freezing point of water. That is visible and knowable to everybody. To begin at nothing and go so many degrees below it or above it is idiotic.

For instance: Why should the commercial nations of the world allow the coinage of so many different kinds and values of gold and silver money? The clerkly labor in custom-houses of reducing the one to the other is immense and expensive; the inconvenience to travellers and shop keepers is enormous. You may call coins what you please, but have all the pieces coined of the same commercial value, and no time or trouble or temper would be wasted in purchasing and making change. From San Francisco to St. Petersburg every thing would be easy and commercial.

For instance: Why should there be in the business world such an infinity of weights and measures? Troy weight, apothecaries weight, avoirdupois weight, dry measure, liquid measure, long measure, cloth measure, the nail, the palm, the hand, the span, two sorts of cubits, a statute mile and a geographic mile; and various and sundry other of these foolish distinctions, often without differences. There is a scientific method of fixing all measures of distance, time, amount and weight, and scientific men, in a congress for that and other similar purposes could agree, determine and establish one uniform system, based upon scientific data, and oblige all school books, tables, and teachers to conform to such rule, by statutes of all the civilized world, if necessary.

For instance: Can there be anything more ridiculous than to submit to and continue the mile measure which obtains in the world as follows:

	YARDS.		YARDS.
Arabian mile	2,148	Italian	2, 25
Bohemian	10,187	Lutherian	9,784
Brebant	6,082	Oldenburg	10,820
Burgundy	6,183	Persian paisang	6,086
Chinese lis	608	Polish (short)	6,493
Dutch	6,295	Polish (long)	8,101
Danish	8,244	Portuguese (leguos)	6,760
English (U. S)	1,760	Prussian	8,498
English geographical	2,028	Roman (ancient)	1,673
Flemish	6,849	Roman (modern)	2,025
German geographical	8,100	Russian (Verst)	1,167
Hamburg	8,244	Saxon	9,905
Hanover	11,559	Scotch	1,984
Hesse	10,547	Silesian	7,881
Hungarian	9,113	Spanish (leguas)	4,630
French (art leagues)	4,860	Spanish (com)	7,416
French (marine)	6,075	Swiss	9,168
Legal league, 2000 toises	4,263	Swedish	11,701
Irish	3,528	Turkey	1,821

Surely it is not necessary to comment on so pregnant an example of what people will submit to, rather than take the trouble to secure uniformity. X. Y. Z.

Ben Johnson said many good things from the point of his pen, both in prose and poetry. Quite worthy of reproduction we mention this righteous but sadly neglected advise of his:

"Study conscience more than thou wouldst fame;
Though both be good, the latter yet is worst,
And ever is ill got without the first."

Waterproof collars and cuffs that you can clean yourself by simply wiping off with a wet sponge. The genuine look exactly like linen and every piece is marked this way:

TRADE ELLULOID MARK.

They are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," and are the only waterproof goods made with an interlining, and the only goods that can stand the wear and give perfect satisfaction. Never wilt and not effected by moisture. Try them and you will never regret it. Ask for those with above trade mark and refuse any imitations. If your dealer does not have them we will mail you a sample direct on receipt of price. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair. State whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted.

The United States Senate.

The political complexion of the present Senate is 44 Democrats, 38 Republicans and 3 Populists—making 85 in all. Three vacancies in senatorial representation, one each from Montana, Wyoming, and Washington, makes 88 Senators the full representation at present. Those who deem themselves competent to size up the next Senate are by no means able to figure out anything like a political revolution. All parties are claiming that they will hold their own.

On the 3d of March, 1895, the terms of thirty members of the United States Senate will expire. Its a little early to count upon the successors of these thirty Senators. Since the people cannot reach them directly, they are safe from the disturbing influences which Congressmen are so often troubled with. If the United States Senator can make his peace and calling sure in his State legislature, either through persuasive boodle or christian endeavor, he needs not bother his head about the so-called sovereign will or sovereign power. And as a general thing he don't.

Foreigners Threaten the Destruction of Mining Property.

The general merchandise store of the Whitebreast Fuel Company, at Ladd, Illinois, was looted on the 8th. inst. by a mob of twelve hundred allen miners from Spring Valley. The stock was valued at $30,000 and will be a complete loss, such articles as could not be carried away being destroyed. The mob was composed of Lithuanians, Poles and Italians, being of the same class that caused the depredations at Spring Valley.

The strikers became so emboldened over their success that they made known their plans for the future. It is the sacking of the buildings of coal companies, the destruction of the machinery and the burning of the mines. This work, the miners assert, will be accomplished before long.

How about the old-fashioned prophecy for a dry spell (because Mary didn't get her skirts wet on the Second of July) as against the moist and copyrighted prophecy of our scientific and erratic weather-makers. It is only a question of time with the scientific rain-makers and weather-makers who presume to shed their light before they get it by telegram from somewhere.

It's just a little amusing to see how the politicians with high aspirations are squirming and twisting to keep into available shape as the political influences of the strike are now developing, and as the time for casting about for the most available candidates draws near. There are several Governors that we have noticed in particular who don't know when they are comfortable, politically speaking.

The Elmira Gazette reveals this new parliamentary rule, discovered in Ireland, which it would be well to put into practice in York State when the female suffragists begin to suffer:

"And now," said the new secretary, "yez may all rize, an' whin I call the roll ivry wan who is prisint may sit down; all the rist remain sthandin."

Coxey, having grown famous at commonwealing, spoke to strikers for two hours on the 12th instant. He advised all to march to Washington and present their grievances before Congress. If the Coxey movement should land him in Congress he will be given credit for some cunning after all.

Tall Girls and Short.

Opinion has always been very much divided upon the subject of women's height. The novelists and designers of fashion plates incline to the view that the female form divine should be somewhat of the altitude of a life-guardsman. Tall women have unquestionably been in the ascendant in more senses than one of late. It has been expected of us to be very much nearer six feet than five, and we have very successfully contrived to fulfill this expectation. Notwithstanding, there is a great deal to be said on the other side. There are those who will declare that there is more fascination, more charm, more vivacity about a little woman. She is, they say, more energetic, and beside her the average young man does not feel the drawbacks of early and incessant cigarette smoking and the degeneracy of his sex: she can coax and pout and flounce into pretty little passions with greater grace than a "daughter of the Gods," she needs a protecting arm in a crowd, and she does not take up so much room in a railway carriage, or dwarf her partners in the ball room.

There never was yet a little woman who could not command attention and flirt five times as furiously as a tall one, and no amount of height ever produced more dignity than a small woman can assume on occasion. It is, of course, by comparison that everything is thus or thus, and so it is only when judged by the standard of some exceptionally tall sister that a short woman will permit herself to be so described. She will always indignantly disclaim a brevity of inches under any circumstances, though no woman ever yet objected to the epithet of "little woman," used as a term of affection.—Lady's Pictorial.

The Dog Laughed.

The proprietor of a Third Avenue store owns a little black kitten that cultivates a habit of squatting on its haunches, like a bear or kangaroo, and then sparring with its fore paws as if it had taken lessons from a pugilist.

A gentleman took into the store the other evening an enormous black dog, half Newfoundland, half collie, fat, good-natured and intelligent. The tiny black kitten, instead of bolting at once for shelter, retreated a few paces, sat erect on its hind legs, and "put its fists" in an attitude of defiance. The contrast in size between the two was intensely amusing. It reminded one of Jack the Giant Killer preparing to demolish a giant.

Slowly and without a sign of excitability the huge dog walked as far as his chain would allow him, and gazed intently at the kitten and its odd posture. Then, as the comicality of the situation struck him, he turned his head and shoulders around to the spectators, and if an animal ever laughed in the world that dog assuredly did, then and there. He neither barked nor growled, but indulged in a low chuckle, while eyes and mouth beamed with merriment. —New York Telegram.

A Flying-Machine Needed.

It is quite likely that in the fulness of time the Almighty will give some insignificant creature something still with-held from the scientific mind, namely, brains enough to invent a revolutionary flying machine. Who can comprehend the revolution it would create or the influence a flying-machine would exert commercially, financially and morally?

Then, don't you see, we could easily sail away above the railroad difficulties on terra firma. Then, too, the striker and the bomb-thrower would have to shoot high in order to hit the innocent passengers while en route, and who would prefer for sake of peace to travel on their own hook and conveyance. But what will become of railroads in that event, do you ask? Why, they will all drown in their watered stock, and then their real and everlasting trouble with devilish firemen and engineers will just begin.

MARKET SQUARE DRY GOODS HOUSE.

Goods are so cheap now that the person who attempts to "jew" on them is considered very unreasonable in trade.

A look through our reduced dress goods will convince you of the truth of the above heading. Many dress goods, many notions, many curtains, many gloves, many stockings, many shirt waists, many corsets, and many other articles are marked below first cost. Some of them cut at a big sacrifice, (other store keepers will confirm our statement) but they must go to give room for goods which pay better. We have put on the counter, dress patterns, the last of a piece at a cut price. Our thin summer corsets are good sellers at 45c. Fans still make wind. Underwear, so thin the air will pass through. Umbrellas will keep you shady. Curtains to darken the room. Belts to make you look neat. Laces to trim the dresses. Suspenders to straighten the man or boy. Fine dishes for a present. Chenille table covers at one-half peddler's prices.

Who Pays the Damages?

Some presumably competent judge now estimates that it will take on a rough guess about eight million dollars to pay the damages done by the strikers in Chicago alone. This guess is made in the absence of any detailed report and does not include the national bill of expense for transportation of troops, &c.

Lawyers in the employ of railroads are already busily engaged drawing up claims for financial redress from the State and county authorities whose jurisdiction covers the territory upon which mob-rule was permitted, or at least not prevented. The county of Cook, Illinois, and the city of Chicago will want to levy a pretty high rate of taxation to meet the demand which is likely to be put upon them through the torch and the general tear-up of the reckless and wrecking strickers. Had the President not wisely fore-stalled the possibility of national censure by sending in troops before the enthusiastically indifferent Governor Altgeld wanted them, it is quite possible the National Treasury would have been called upon through Congress to help foot the bill of damages.

It will be some weeks no doubt before the definite amount of damages can be told. But considering the hundreds of cars burned, containing promiscuous freight for which the railroad companies are held liable, there is certainly quite a bill of damages for somebody to pay.

No doubt some definite plan of procedure will soon be determined upon by the railroad companies as well as the individuals whose goods were burned while in transit and in care of the railroads. If the railroad companies make good all losses (as the courts would be apt to compel under ordinary circumstances) they will do better than they have done in the past where perishable goods were lost by shippers because of the cars hauling them being tied up by strikers. Whatever can be squeezed out of railroad companies through the courts the people losing their goods while in transit will likely get. What can't be thus squeezed out will not be gotten. The people will sue the railroads and the railroads will sue Cook county and Chicago city, most likely, and it will be a fine mess of litigation before they get through with $8,000,000 worth of damages.

If David Bennett Hill is not better than his party, in his own opinion, then who is?

On Docking.

Gov. Greenhalge has issued an order to his staff that they must not appear in his official company mounted on horses that have their tails docked. The governor is a humane man, and when he tried to buy a horse a short time ago the man told him it was next to impossible to get a decent animal that didn't have his tail docked. "Then," said his Excellency, "I'll walk."

The practice of docking horses' tails is being carried on to a large extent in Lowell. The Humane Society offers a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of any one performing this brutal act. Under a law now before the legislature any person mutilating a horse may be sent to jail for a year or fined $300, and the finding of a horse with a freshly-docked tail in the stable of any person shall be sufficient evidence to prove a case. Nearly all the so-called swell turn-outs in Lowell are now drawn by horses whose tails have been cut.

Gov. Greenhalge's opposition to the practice of docking the tails of horses does credit not only to his humanity but to his common sense. The fashion of mutilating these helpless quadrupeds is rather less respectable, if anything, than the motives which prompt Congo belles to wear brass rings in their noses.—Boston Journal.

Protect the Oriole

On a tree close by the chamber window of a friend of ours in Brighton appeared the other day a large nest of caterpillars, which as soon as the weather cleared must be destroyed.

Early the next morning a jubilant bird song was heard by our friend near her chamber window, and looking out she found an oriole (golden robin) eating caterpillars and singing its song of thanksgiving.

That oriole rendered a better service in destroying that nest of caterpillars than it could have rendered on a lady's hat.

It is said that if all the birds were destroyed the increase of insects would become so great that every form of human and animal life would perish from the earth.

If birds were all better protected the state of Massachusetts alone might have saved the hundreds of thousands of dollars which have been and are now being spent to exterminate the Gypsy moth.—Dumb Animals.
